(b) Court References. The four corners of the Court are known respectively as Corners 1, 2, 3 and 4—see Diagram. The four boundaries are known as the South, West, North and East boundaries—see Diagram—regardless of the orientation of the Court.

(c) Yard-line, Yard-line Area, Corner Spot, Corner Square. The sides of an inner rectangle parallel to and distant one yard from the boundary are called the yard-line, its corners the corner spots, and the space between the yard-line and the boundary the yard-line area. The square yard formed at each corner by the two corner pegs, the corner spot, and the corner flag, is called a corner square (see Diagram, page 26).

(d) Yard-line Balls and Corner Balls. Balls on the yard-line are called yard-line balls. Balls on the corner spots of the yard-line are in addition known as corner balls.

(e) Baulk-lines. Portions of the yard-line, from the corner spots at corners 1 and 3 towards the corners 4 and 2 respectively, each measuring 13 yards, are called baulk-lines (see Diagram, page 26).

(f) The Standard Setting. The Peg shall be set in the centre of the court. The Hoops shall be set parallel to the North and South boundaries; the centres of the two inner hoops 7 yards to the north and south of the peg; the centres of the four outer hoops 7 yards from their adjacent boundaries.

(g) The diagram on page 26 depicts the Standard Setting for a Standard Court and together with the explanations thereon and thereunder shall be part of this Law.

2. EQUIPMENT.

(a) Hoops. The hoops shall be of round iron § inch diameter, and of uniform thickness. They shall be 12 inches in height above the ground measured to the top of the hoop, vertical, and firmly fixed. The crown shall be straight and at right angles to the uprights, which shall be not less than 3 11-16 inches or more than 4 inches apart uniformly between the uprights (inside measurement) provided that all the hoops on any one court shall be of the same dimensions. The hoops shall be painted white, the crown of the first hoop coloured blue, and that of the last hoops which is known as the rover hoop red.

(b) The Peg.—The peg shall be of wood, of a uniform diameter above the ground of 1½ inches. It shall be 18 inches in height above the ground, exclusive of a detachable portion to hold clips, vertical and firmly fixed. The base shall be painted white.

(c) The Balls.—The balls shall be coloured respectively blue, red, black and yellow. They shall be 3⅝ inches in diameter and of even weight, not less than 15¾ ounces nor more than 16¼ ounces. Faulty or damaged balls may be changed.

(d) Mallets.—The head of the mallet shall be of wood only, except that metal may be used for weighting or strengthening it. The two faces shall be parallel, of wood only, and identical in every respect. There may be a bevelled edge which shall not be considered to be part of the face. A player may not change his mallet during a turn except in the case of damage affecting use.

3. COURT ACCESSORIES.

The following accessories should be supplied for guidance, convenience and decoration. The accessories do not form part of the setting of the court. Accordingly, any such accessories temporarily impeding a striker may be temporarily removed.

(a) Corner Flag.—Flags coloured blue, red, black and yellow, shall be placed in corners 1, 2, 3, and 4 respectively. The flags shall be mounted on pegs about one foot high. The peg shall be touching the boundary but no part shall be on the court.

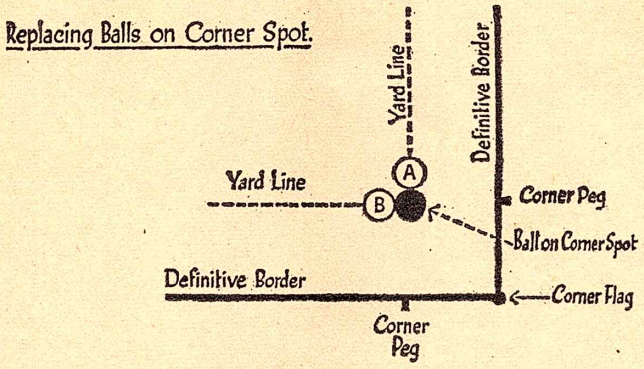
(b) Corner Pegs.—Eight white corner pegs, measuring ¾ inch in diameter, and 3 inches in height above the ground shall be placed on the boundary one yard from the corner flags, measured to the further side of the corner pegs. The inside edge of the corner pegs shall be in line with the boundary.

(c) Extension to Peg.—A detachable portion to hold the clips shall be attached to the top of the peg.

(d) Clips.—The function of clips is to indicate the state of the game on the court. The hoop or peg next in order for every ball at the beginning of every turn shall be distinguished by a clip of colour corresponding with that of the ball. When a ball scores a hoop so distinguished the striker shall remove the clip and at the end of the turn place it upon the appropriate hoop or the peg. When the peg is scored the clip shall be removed from the Court. The first six hoops shall be distinguished by placing the clip on the crown of the hoop, the last six by placing it on one of the uprights. Each player should call the attention of the other to a misplaced clip as soon as the mistake is observed and the clip should then be properly placed.

(e) It is also permissible and desirable that a check-fence just high enough to arrest the progress of balls, be placed round the outside of the court about a yard from the boundary.

DIAGRAM REFERRED TO IN LAW 8 Page 31



If a ball already occupies the corner spot other balls due for simultaneous replacement thereon must be replaced on the yard line in contact with such ball. A second ball therefore may be placed either in position "A" or "B."

A third ball must be placed in the position left vacant.

C. Miscellaneous Laws of Play.
D. Laws Governing Irregularities in Play and Interference with Play.

A. AN OUTLINE OF THE GAME.

4. INTRODUCTION TO THE GAME.

(a) The Object of the Game.—The game is played between two players, of whom one plays the blue and black, the other the red and yellow balls. The object of the game is for a player to make both his balls score the twelve hoop points and the peg point, a total of 26 points before his adversary. The player wins whose balls first score the 26 points. Play may, however, be directed or agreed to be played subject to a time limit. In that event, the player wins whose ball have scored the greater number of points at the end of the appointed time; but if the score is then level, play continues until one player makes a winning point. A ball scores a hoop point by passing through the hoop in the order and in the direction shown on the Diagram on page 26. This is known as running a hoop. But a ball which has made a roquet cannot in the same stroke score a point for itselef except under the fiction set out in (d) hereunder. A ball scores, the peg by hitting it. It is then known as a ball pegged out. For amplification of the above see late Law 14—Hoop Points, and Law 15—The Peg Point.

(b) How Play is Made.—Play is made by striking a ball with a mallet. For the essentials of a fair stroke—see Laws 31 and 32. The player so playing is called the striker, and the ball which he strikes, the striker's ball. The striker may never strike an adversary's ball, and he may strike only one of his own two balls during any one turn. By striking this ball the striker may cause any other ball to move and to score a point, but only when the striker's ball has made all 12 hoop points, and is then known as a rover ball, can the striker cause another rover ball to score the peg.

(c) The Turn.—The players play alternate turns. A player is initially entitled to one stroke in a turn, after which his turn ends unless in that stroke his striker's ball has scored a hoop point or hit another ball. When a hoop is scored, the striker is entitled to play one continuation stroke. When another ball is hit, the striker is said to have made a roquet on that ball and becomes entitled to two extra strokes. The first of these two strokes is known as the croquet stroke, and is made after moving and placing the striker's ball in contact with the roqueted ball which, in the croquet stroke, is now known as the croqueted ball. In the croquet stroke the striker must move or shake the croqueted ball. Further, if in the croquet stroke the croqueted ball is sent off the court or the striker's ball is sent off the court without first having made another roquet, or scored a hoop point for itself, the turn ends. During a turn the striker may roquet each ball once and he may make a further roquet on each ball provided that since he has last roqueted it his striker's ball has scored a hoop point for itself, or is deemed so to have done under the fiction in (d) hereunder. If, at the beginning of a turn, the striker elects to play a ball in contact with another ball, the striker's ball is deemed to have roqueted that ball and the turn starts with a croquet stroke. Thus, by a series of strokes entitling him to continue, the striker may make one or more points. Such a series is known as making a break. But continuation strokes are not cumulative so that a striker who

(i) scores two hoops for his striker's ball in one stroke only plays one continuation stroke;

(ii) scores a hoop for his striker's ball in a croquet stroke plays only one continuation stroke;

(iii) makes a roquet in a croquet stroke immediately takes croquet and continues accordingly.

For amplification of the above, see Comprehensive Laws of Roquet and Croquet, 16-20.

(d) Fictitious Case of Hoop and Roquet.—When the striker's ball which has partly run a hoop in order but before completing the running hits a ball on the non-playing side of the hoop (defined in Law 14) and finally runs the hoop in the same stroke, the striker's ball shall be deemed to have run the hoop before it hit that ball and as a result of this fiction the point is scored and the roquet is made. (See also 34 (d) and 14 (iii).

5. BALL IN HAND.—A ball in hand is any ball which has to be moved and for this purpose may be handled and then given a fresh position on the court in accordance with these Laws. This process is known as lifting the ball. The first example is that of a ball which has made a roquet—see preceding Law. Two further examples are balls off the court and certain balls in the yard-line area. The Laws

6. BALL OFF THE COURT.—A ball off the court is a ball in hand as soon as it goes off the court. Until it is replaced in accordance with Law 8, it is an outside agency. A ball goes off the court as soon as any part of it would touch a straight edge raised vertically from a boundary, that is to say the inside edge of the definitive border.

7. BALLS IN THE YARD-LINE AREA.—At the end of each stroke all balls in the yard-line area, other than the striker's ball which is played from where it lies, become balls in hand. Only at the end of the turn does the striker's ball in the yard-line area become a ball in hand.

8. REPLACEMENT OF BALLS OFF THE COURT AND BALLS IN HAND IN YARD-LINE AREA.—(a) Before the next stroke all balls off the court and balls in hand in the yard-line area other than the striker's ball entitled to take croquet, shall be placed on the yard-line at the point nearest to which they went off the court, or remained on the court in the yard-line area, as the case may be.

(b) If a ball cannot be so placed because of the presence of another ball or balls on the yard-line, including the corner spot, it shall be placed on the yard-line in contact with such ball or one of them on the yard-line on either side; but if one of two such balls be a corner ball the third ball shall be placed on the yard-line on the unoccupied side of the ball on the corner spot.

(c) If a ball cannot be so placed because of the presence of a ball outside the yard-line area, it shall be placed on the yard-line on any point in contact with that ball; provided that if the ball to be placed is a corner ball, it shall in addition thereto, be placed on the yard-line as near as possible to the corner spot.

(See Diagram on page 29.)

9. THE TOSS BEFORE THE START OF THE GAME.—The winner of the toss shall decide whether he will take the choice of lead or the choice of balls. This is known as the right of choice. If he take the choice of lead the adversary has the choice of balls, and vice-versa. When a match consists of more than one game the right of choice after the initial toss shall alternate.

10. THE START OF THE GAME.—At the start the Striker plays either of his balls in to the game from any point on either baulk-line. At the end of that turn his opponent does likewise. In the third and fourth turns the remaining two balls are similarly played into the game.

PART 2. SECTION B.

11. BALL IN PLAY.—A ball played under Law 10 may immediately score points and make roquets and is known as a ball in play. It continues in play until it has scored the peg except when it is off the court, or, between strokes, in hand.

12. OPTION OF STRIKER TO PLAY EITHER BALL.—After all four balls have been played into the game, the striker may, in any subsequent turn, play with either of his two balls at his option.

13. WIRED BALLS.—(a) A ball is said to be wired from another ball if:

(i) any part of an upright of a hoop or the peg would impede the direct course of any part of the striker's ball towards any part of the other ball; or

(ii) any part of a hoop or the peg so interferes with any part of the swing of the mallet that the striker, with his usual style of play, cannot in order to make a roquet drive his ball freely towards any part of the other ball, when striking the centre of his ball with any part of the face of his mallet. The mere interference of a hoop or the peg with the stance of the striker does not constitute wiring.

(b) If at the beginning of a turn the striker elects to play a ball which is wired from all other balls, which is a ball not in contact with another ball and is a ball for whose position the adversary is responsible, he may elect to lift such ball. If he does so it immediately becomes in hand, and must be played by the striker from any point on either baulk line. The striker shall be responsible for the position of all balls moved or shaken as a direct or indirect consequence of his play, or which he is deemed to have played under Law 31 (b).

B. HOOP POINTS, PEG POINT AND COMPREHENSIVE LAWS OF ROQUET AND CROQUET.

14.—HOOP POINTS.—In amplification of Law 4 (a) and (d) the following applies:

(a) The front of the hoop as a ball approaches to run it in order is known as the playing side of the hoop; the other side as the non-playing side. The whole of the ball does not have to pass through the whole of the hoop in order to score a point, BECAUSE:

(i) A ball begins to run a hoop only when the front of the ball would touch a straight edge raised vertically against the non-playing side of the hoop;

(ii) but contrariwise a ball completes the running of a hoop as soon as the back of a ball has passed a line made by raising a straight edge against the playing side of the hoop—subject to (iii) hereof.

(iii) A ball which moves back before it has finally come to rest does not score the hoop if, in its final position, it has not completed the running.

(b) When the striker's ball has scored a hoop point the striker shall play a continuation stroke unless he is entitled to take croquet or his turn has ended under Law 19 (c).

(c) When a ball other than the striker's ball is caused to score a hoop point, it is said to have been peeled through the hoop.

15. THE PEG POINT.—This Law amplifies Law 4 (a) and (b):

(a) If the striker's ball hits the peg in order and simultaneously makes a roquet, the striker shall elect whether to score the point or claim the roquet. If the roquet is not claimed the point is scored.

(b) If a rover ball in contact with the peg is roqueted by the striker's ball, being itself a rover, it shall be pegged out unless it is roqueted in a direction away from the peg. Likewise if the striker at the beginning of a turn play a rover which is in contact with the peg it shall be pegged out unless it is played in a direction away from the peg.

(c) A ball pegged out is deemed to come to rest at the peg and thereafter is an outside agency and any subsequent interference during that stroke shall be rectified in accordance with Law 34 (b) (iii).

(d) Before the next stroke the striker shall remove the pegged-out ball from the court.

16. ROQUET.—Laws 16-20 hereunder amplify and repeat Laws 4 (c) and (d):

(a) When Roquet may be made. During a turn the striker is entitled to roquet each ball, and he may make a further roquet on each ball provided that since he last roqueted it, his striker's ball, has either scored a hoop point for itself or is deemed so to have done under the fiction in Law 4 (d).

(b) Making an Actual Roquet. The striker makes an actual roquet when his striker's ball by direct hit or by glancing off a hoop or the peg or a previously croqueted ball, hits a ball which he is entitled to roquet, subject to (i), (11) and (iii) hereof:

(i) when a roquet would have been made under the above Law on two or more balls during one stroke, it shall be deemed only to have been made on the ball first hit; if two or more balls are hit simultaneously the roquet shall be deemed only to have been made on one such ball to be nominated by the striker as the roqueted ball;

(ii) when the striker's ball simultaneously hits the peg in order and makes a roquet, the provisions of Law 15 (a) apply.

(iii) When in the course of a croquet stroke the striker's ball scores a hoop point for itself and thereafter again makes contact with the croqueted ball, a roquet is not made unless the balls are in contact when they come to rest.

(c) Ball deemed to have been Roqueted. The striker shall be deemed to have made a roquet if at the beginning of a turn he plays a ball in actual contact with another ball. If in like circumstances the striker's ball be in actual contact with more than one ball, he shall be deemed to have roqueted only one of such balls to be nominated by the striker as the roqueted ball. If in like circumstances the striker plays a ball which is one of a group of balls in mutual contact any one of which is a yard-line ball, he shall be deemed to have roqueted any one of such balls to be nominated by him as the roqueted ball. The right of nomination is exercised by the act of taking croquet.

17. THE EFFECT OF MAKING A ROQUET.—When a roquet is made, unless the striker's turn ends under Law 19 hereof, or unless the ball on which the roquet is made is pegged out in the roquet stroke, the striker's ball at the end of the stroke becomes a ball in hand and the striker takes croquet in accordance with the next two laws. In the above two exceptions the striker's ball remains in play where it lies and the turn ends.

18.—PLACING THE BALLS FOR THE CROQUET STROKE.—(a) To take croquet the striker places his ball in contact with the ball roqueted however he chooses and with no other ball. Subject to (b) hereof no other ball may be moved.

(b) When the striker is taking croquet from one of a group of balls in mutual contact, any one of which is a yard-line ball, all balls other than the ball actually roqueted or deemed to have been roqueted, which remains where it is, become balls in hand and are temporarily removed. If a group be a group of three balls, the striker shall place both balls in contact with the roqueted ball however he chooses provided that his striker's ball is only in contact with the roqueted ball. If the group be a group of four balls, the fourth ball shall be placed out of contact with the striker's ball, and in contact with one or both of the other two balls.

(c) Before playing his stroke the striker may touch or steady the roqueted ball, and may further apply such pressure by hand or foot, but not by mallet, as is reasonably necessary to make it hold its position. He may not move such ball intentionally, but if he does so unintentionally he shall replace it without penalty.

19. THE CROQUET STROKE.—(a) The ball, hitherto known as the roqueted ball, is in the croquet stroke known as the croqueted ball.

(b) The striker now makes a stroke with the balls placed as in the preceding Law and in doing so must move or shake the croqueted ball, or a ball in contact with it other than his own ball.

(c) In the croquet stroke, the striker may, without infringing these laws, send the croqueted ball off the court; but if he does so, his turn ends notwithstanding he may in the same stroke have made a further roquet or scored a hoop point. Likewise, in the croquet stroke, the striker may lawfully send his striker's ball off the court without it first having made a roquet; but if he does so his turn ends unless he has scored a hoop point for that ball in that stroke.

20. THE CONTINUATION STROKE.—After the croquet stroke, the striker shall play a continuation stroke unless (i) his turn has ended under the preceding sub-law; or (ii) he is otherwise entitled to take croquet.

C. MISCELLANEOUS LAWS OF PLAY.

21. MARKING DIRECTION OF AIM.—A mark shall not be made upon the ground, either inside or outside the court, for the purpose of guiding the striker in the direction or strength of a stroke.

22. BALL MOVING BETWEEN STROKES.—Should a ball which has finally come to rest move or make a point not due to the action of the striker, it shall be replaced immediately and the point shall not be scored.

A ball is deemed finally to have come to rest if the striker has taken his stance for the next stroke or left the court in the belief that the ball has come to rest.

23. IMPERFECTIONS ON THE SURFACE OF THE COURT.—(a) Loose impediments (such as worm casts, leaves and the like) may be removed.

(b) When the striker's ball, or a ball from which he is taking croquet, is on a corner spot in which a hole has been worn, he may remove either such ball so that his stroke is not thereby impeded, but no more than is necessary and never to the striker's advantage. When any ball is moved under this sub-law any other ball affected by this must also be moved to the same extent. Any ball so moved and not displaced by the stroke, shall at once be replaced.

(c) Subject to (a) and (b) above, the striker must not move any ball on account of inequalities in the surface of the court unless such inequalities came into the category of special damage, illustrations of which are rabbit scrapes and unrepaired holes caused by the mallet being hit into the ground; but special damage does not include that which is part of the normal hazards of an indifferent court. In cases of special damage balls may be moved, but no more than is necessary to avoid such damage and never to such a position as would be advantageous to the striker.

(d) Wiping.—Any ball may be wiped at any time.

24. OBSTACLES INTERFERING WITH STROKE.—If the striker finds that any fixed obstacle outside the court is likely to interfere with his stroke, he may move his ball, and any other ball likely to be affected by the stroke, sufficiently to allow a free swing of the mallet. In so doing he must move his own ball along the line of aim, maintaining the relative positions of any balls so moved. Any ball so moved and not displaced by the stroke, shall at once be replaced.

25. LOCAL LAWS.—Clubs or persons controlling courts may submit to the Council for approval local laws to suit any particular need. If such local laws are approved by the appropriate Council, the play shall be in accordance therewith.

D. LAWS GOVERNING IRREGULARITIES IN PLAY AND INTERFERENCE WITH PLAY.

26. FORESTALLING.—An adversary may forestall by word or gesture. After the forestalling the balls are dead until the matter about to be raised is settled. Should a player, through a breakdown in communications, continue to play, the balls shall be replaced as if they had been moved between strokes.

27. PLAYING WHEN NOT ENTITLED TO DO SO.—If a player under a misapprehension makes a stroke or series of strokes when he is not entitled to play, his adversary, if he observes the error, shall immediately intervene, and in that event or in the event of the striker realising his own mistake all such strokes are null and void and the balls shall be replaced to their proper positions. If the error is not observed by either player until the player has stopped playing and his adversary has made one further stroke, the error is condoned and all such play shall be deemed valid and all points made during such period shall be scored.

28. PLAYING WHEN ANY BALL IS MISPLACED—GENERAL RULE.—If an adversary observes the striker about to make a stroke when any ball, including the striker's ball, which may be affected by the stroke is not properly placed he shall forestall the stroke. In the instances specified below this right and duty is the only remedy of the adversary and if he fails so to forestall, the stroke shall be valid; but any ball improperly placed which has not been moved during the stroke shall then be properly placed. Such instances are:

(i) Playing without first replacing any ball irregularly moved after the termination of the preceding stroke.

(ii) Playing when the striker's ball, which should have been in the yard-line area, has been improperly brought on to the yard-line during a turn.

(iii) Playing when a ball, other than the striker's ball, has been improperly left in the yard-line area.

(iv) Playing the striker's ball when it is a ball in baulk otherwise than from a position on a baulk line.

(v) In a croquet stroke, playing when the striker's ball is not actually touching the ball from which he is attempting to take croquet.

(vi) In a croquet stroke, playing when the striker's ball is in actual contact with a third ball.

(vii) In any other cases except those dealt with in Law 29, following.

29. PLAYING WHEN ANY BALL IS MISPLACED—EXCEPTIONS TO THE GENERAL RULE.

(a) Taking Croquet from the Wrong Ball.—If the striker, being entitled to take croquet, takes croquet from the wrong ball, his adversary, if he observes the irregularity, shall forestall play at any time before the stroke following the continuation stroke. In that event, the adversary has the option of deciding whether there should be a replay or not. If he elects there should be a replay, the striker shall place the balls in a lawful position for the croquet stroke and play shall continue accordingly. If he elects otherwise, the position of the two balls involved in the irregularity shall be interchanged and play shall continue as if croquet had been taken from the correct ball. If he fails so to forestall, the balls shall remain in play as they lie and play shall continue as if the preceding roquet had been made on the ball from which croquet was taken.

(b) Taking Croquet when not entitled to do so.—If the striker takes croquet from a ball under the misapprehension that he has already made a roquet, his adversary, if he observes the irregularity, shall forestall play at any time before the stroke following the continuation stroke, and in that event, all balls shall be replaced and the striker shall continue his turn without penalty. If the adversary fails so to forestall play shall continue as if the striker had made a roquet on the ball from which he took croquet.

(c) Failing to take Croquet when entitled to do so.—If the striker, who is entitled to take croquet, fails so to do, the adversary, if he observes the mistake, shall forestall play at any time before the next stroke but one, and in that event, any balls moved shall be replaced, and the striker shall take croquet. If the adversary fails so to forestall, play shall continue as if the striker, being entitled to play, had never made the preceding roquet.

(d) Wrongly removing or failing to remove a ball from the game. —If a ball which has not been pegged out is removed from the court under the misapprehension that it has been pegged out, or if a ball which has been pegged out is left in play under the misapprehension that it has not been pegged out, all play subsequent to the error is null and void; the balls shall be replaced; the score shall be adjusted accordingly, and the person entitled to play shall play.

30. PLAYING THE WRONG BALL.—(a) If, at the beginning of the game before all balls are in play, the striker makes the first stroke of his turn with an adversary's ball which has not hitherto been in play, such stroke and any subsequent strokes made with that ball during that turn before the error is discovered, shall be deemed valid; any points in order made shall be scored as if they had been made by the correct ball, and when the error is discovered the correct ball shall be substituted without penalty for the adversary's ball.

(b) Save as in (a) above, if the striker strikes a wrong ball, he shall commit a fault. Unless condoned, the turn shall end. Unless the first stroke in error was a croquet stroke, the balls shall be replaced. If the first stroke in error was a croquet stroke, all balls, other than the striker's ball shall be replaced, and the striker's ball, then being in hand, shall be placed by the striker in any lawful position to take croquet. If, as a result of the balls being so placed, any ball is lying in the yard-line area, it shall be brought on to the yard-line in accordance with these laws.

(c) The error is condoned if it is not claimed before the first stroke of the next turn. In that event, the balls shall remain in play as they lie, but the only points which shall score are as follows, namely:

(i) When playing any ball in error, any points made by peeling any other ball.

(ii) When playing the striker's other ball in error, any points in order for that other ball.

31. DEFINITION OF A STROKE AND THE LIMITS OF THE STRIKING PERIOD.—(a) The striker shall begin to strike when he swings his mallet with intent to hit the ball. But, if before he has made a stroke or committed a fault, he deliberately checks his mallet, he shall not begin to strike until once again he begins to swing his mallet with intent to hit the ball.

(b) A stroke is any movement of the mallet with intent to hit the ball, or, after the striker has begun to strike, any contact between mallet and ball which moves the ball. A stroke shall be deemed to have been made if the striker deliberately misses his ball or announces his intention to leave it where it lies. In all the above cases he shall be deemed to have played it where it lies.

(c) The striking shall end when the striker has completed his swing and quitted his stance. After this period, no fault can be committed under the next Law; but the stroke includes the consequence of the striking and does not end until all the balls set in motion have come to rest, or have been pegged out or sent off the court.

32. MAKING A FAULT DURING THE STRIKING.—(a) A fault is made during the striking if the striker:

(i) Touches the head of the mallet with the hand; or causes or attempts to cause the mallet to strike the ball by kicking or hitting the mallet.

(ii) Rests a hand or an arm on the shaft of the mallet on the ground.

(iii) Rests a hand or an arm directly connected with the stroke or the shaft of the mallet against any part of the leg or foot.

(iv) Strikes his ball with any part of the mallet other than an end face of the head; an accidental mis-hit in an unhampered stroke shall not constitute a fault under this law.

(v) Pushes or pulls his ball, when in contact with another ball without first striking it audibly or distinctly.

(vi) Pushes or pulls his ball when not in contact with another ball whether he first strikes it audibly or distinctly or not.

In (v) and (vi) above a "push" or "pull" consists in maintaining contact between mallet and ball for an appreciable period irrespective of the stance or attitude of the striker. Any acceleration following a check of the mallet after its initial contact with the ball should be regarded as pushing.

(vii) Strikes his ball when in play audibly or distinctly more than once in the same stroke provided that no fault shall be committed if the cause of the second hit is that the course of the striker's ball from the mallet has been partially arrested because of the making of a roquet, or because its course has been interfered with by a ball pegged out in that stroke.

(viii) Moves a ball at rest by hitting a hoop or the peg with the mallet.

(ix) Strikes his ball so as to cause it to touch an upright or the peg whilst still in contact with the mallet (crush stroke).

(x) Strikes his ball, when lying in contact with an upright or the peg otherwise than in a direction away from the upright or the peg (crush stroke).

(xi) Touches a ball, other than his ball, with the mallet or with any part of his body or clothes; or allows his own ball to touch any part of his body or clothes or to retouch his mallet.

(xii) When making a croquet stroke, fails to move or shake the croquet ball or a ball in contact with it other than his ball.

(b) The Effect of Making a Fault, including Penalty.—

(i) Unless the fault is condoned, the striker's turn ends, no point can be scored, and in all cases, except for a fault made during a croquet stroke wherein the turn would have ended under Law 19 (c), the balls are replaced. If during a croquet stroke the turn would have ended under Law 19 (c) the adversary may waive any fault under this law and treat the balls as having been validly played.

(ii) The fault is condoned if it is not claimed before the making of the next stroke but one. In this event the stroke shall be deemed to have been lawful.

33. INTERFERENCE WITH BALLS BETWEEN STROKES.—If between strokes any ball which has finally come to rest, which is defined in Law 22, is moved it shall be replaced without penalty.

34. INTERFERENCE WITH BALLS DURING STROKES.—

(a) Interference by the Striker after the Conclusion of the Striking but before the Conclusion of the Stroke.—If during the above period the striker accidentally interferes with a ball there shall be no penalty. If any such ball is at rest it shall be replaced. If it is moving it shall be placed where, as nearly as can be judged, it would otherwise have come to rest. But after such interference such ball cannot in that stroke make a roquet or be roqueted, score a hoop or cause another ball to score a hoop or be displaced.

(b) Interference by Outside Agencies during Strokes.—If during a stroke any ball is interfered with by any agency outside the game, except weather, then:

(i) If the interference be with the striker's ball while it is travelling in the general direction of a hoop in order which the striker is attempting to run, or in the general direction of a ball which the striker is attempting to roquet,, the stroke shall be played again.

(ii) If the interference be with a ball on which the striker is attempting to make a roquet and the striker's ball at the moment of interference is travelling in the general direction of that ball, the stroke shall be played again.

(iii) In all other cases the ball interfered with shall be replaced where it lay, or placed where, as nearly as can be judged, it would otherwise have come to rest.

(c) Interference by Adversary during Strokes.—Any interference by an adversary shall be treated as in Law 34 (b).

(d) Interference with Ball that has made a Roquet.—Although a ball that has made a roquet remains in play throughout the stroke it may be picked up or arrested in its course to save time if the state of the game will not be affected thereby.

35. MISTAKES IN THE SCORE—INCLUDING MISPLACED CLIPS.—(a) Any player seeing a clip misplaced shall immediately call attention to it and it shall then be properly placed.

(b) The score shall be adjusted at all times before the players quit the court in the belief the game has ended or, if it is a match, before they start another game.

(c) Should the striker at the end of his turn fail to place any clip correctly and in consequence thereof his adversary is led into a line of play which he would not otherwise have adopted, such adversary has the right to replace the balls where they were when he was first misled provided that this claim is made before the second stroke of the offending party's next turn. If such adversary has been misled on the first stroke of a turn he may at his option play his other ball in the replay.

(d) Further, if the striker makes any stroke or strokes in consequence of any other false information concerning the state of the game supplied by his adversary, he shall be entitled to replay as in the preceding sub-law above. (See also 40 (d) and 45 (b).

PART III

Adaptation of Part 2 to:

A. Laws of Advanced Singles Play.
B. Laws of Semi-Advanced Singles Play.
C. Laws of Handicap Singles Play.
D. Laws of Double Play (Ordinary Level, Advanced, and Semi-Advanced and Handicap).

A. LAWS OF ADVANCED SINGLES PLAY.

When play is agreed or directed to be played under the conditions of advanced singles play the laws of ordinary level singles play shall apply with the following additional law:

36. OPTIONAL LIFT AND CONTACT IN ADVANCED SINGLES PLAY.—(a) When the striker's ball has scored one-back or four-back for his ball during a turn, the adversary may choose, subject to (c) below, to begin his subsequent turn, either:

(i) by playing as the balls lie;
or (ii) by lifting either ball of his side even if it be in contact with one or more balls. As soon as such ball is lifted it immediately becomes in hand and shall be played by the striker from any point on either baulk-line.

(b) When the striker has scored one-back and four-back for his ball during a turn and his partner ball has not scored one-back before that turn, the adversary may choose, subject to (c) below, to begin his subsequent turn, either:

(i) as in (a) (i) above; or
(ii) as in (a) (ii) above; or
(iii) by lifting either ball of his side, even it be in contact with one or more balls, placing it in contact with any ball, and taking croquet forthwith.

(c) A player who has previously pegged out any ball during the game is not entitled to a lift or a contact under this law.

(d) This law is subject to the provisions of Law 10 which states that the partner balls must be played in the third and fourth turns respectively, but overrides the provision of that law which says that such balls must be played from baulk.

B. LAWS OF SEMI-ADVANCED SINGLES PLAY.

When play is agreed or directed to be played under the conditions of semi-advanced singles play the laws of ordinary level singles play shall apply with the following additional law:

PART 3. SECTION C.

37. OPTIONAL LIFT AND CONTACT IN SEMI-ADVANCED SINGLES PLAY.—The preceding Law 36 shall apply with the omission of the words "or four-back" in sub-section (a) thereof.

C. LAWS OF HANDICAP SINGLES PLAY.

When play is agreed or directed to be played under conditions of handicap singles play the laws of ordinary level singles play shall apply subject to the following additions and modifications:

38. BISQUES.—(a) A bisque is an extra turn given in handicap play and can only be played by the striker with the ball which he was playing in the preceding turn. A half-bisque is a restricted bisque in which no point can be scored for any ball. If, however, the striker plays the first stroke of a non-bisque turn with an adversary's ball and the error is discovered within the limits of claims, he may elect to play a bisque or half-bisque after the balls have been replaced and in that event he may play with either of his balls.

(b) The number of bisques to be given shall be the difference between the respective handicaps of the players.

(c) A player entitled to a bisque or a series of bisques may play one or more in succession at any time of the game whatsoever except after time has been called in a game subject to a time limit and this over-rides the provision of Law 10. A striker who has declared his intention to play a bisque may change his mind at any time before making the stroke. But if the striker after he has played all the strokes to which he is entitled signifies that he is not going to play a bisque either by words or by quitting the court he may not change his mind. An adversary shall not begin to play until the striker has so signified his intention.

(d) If the striker is entitled to play either a bisque or a half-bisque he shall be deemed to have played the bisque unless before beginning the extra turn he has announced his intention of playing the half-bisque.

(e) If the adversary observes the striker about to play a bisque or half-bisque before he has made all the strokes to which he is entitled he shall forestall play. If he fails so to forestall the striker shall be deemed regularly to have begun his extra turn.

(f) If the striker plays a bisque or half-bisque with the wrong ball after ending a turn with the correct ball he shall be deemed to have played such bisque or half-bisque and the provisions of Law 30 shall apply to that extra turn.

39. PEGGING OUT.—Unless an adversary's ball has already been pegged out a player may not peg out his own ball before his partner ball has become a rover. Should he do so and remove it from the court all strokes subsequent thereto are null and void and the provisions of Law 29 (d) shall apply.

D. LAWS OF DOUBLES PLAY.

40. (a) INTRODUCTION TO THE GAME.—The game is played between two sides, each side consisting of two players. One player plays throughout with one ball of the side and his partner with the other. The partner of the striker is under the same obligations as the striker to avoid interference with balls. If he does so interfere accidentally the consequences are as if it had been the striker who interfered.

(b) ASSISTANCE TO PARTNER. A player may not only advise but may assist his partner in the making of a stroke in the sense that he may set the balls for a croquet stroke and indicate the direction in which the mallet should be swung. But at the time the stroke is actually made he should stand well clear of the striker and well clear of any spot which may help the striker in gauging the strength or direction of the stroke.

(c) PLAYING THE WRONG BALL. Law 30 (c) shall be modified so as to exclude from scoring any point for any ball during such period of error except hoop points in order for a ball made by way of peeling.

(d) EFFECT OF MISPLACED CLIP. If a side is entitled to replay as from the beginning of a turn in consequence of a misplaced clip or other misleading information, the side may elect which player shall make the replay.

41. ORDINARY LEVEL PLAY.—Subject to the preceding Law 39, the laws of ordinary level doubles play are the laws of ordinary level singles play, but where appropriate the word player shall be taken to include side and the word striker to include the partner of the striker.

42. ADVANCED AND SEMI-ADVANCED PLAY.—When play is directed or agreed to be played under the conditions of advanced or semi-advanced play the laws of ordinary level doubles play shall apply with the following additional laws, namely, Laws 35 and 36, with the substitution of "Partner's ball" for "partner ball" in Law 35.

43. HANDICAP PLAY.—When play is directed or agreed to be played under the conditions of handicap play. the modification of the Laws of ordinary level play to handicap play shall apply with the following further modifications:

(a) The number of bisques to be given shall be half the difference between the joint handicaps of the sides, a fraction above a half being counted as one bisque and a fraction under a half as a half-bisque.

(b) A player may not peel his partner's ball through more than four hoops.

PART IV.

CUSTOMS OF THE GAME.

44. THE STATE OF THE GAME.—Any questions as to the correct position of the balls, whether one ball is wired from another, which player played a ball to a particular position, whether a ball has been hit or a hoop has been run or may be run, and any such kindred matters, relate to the state of the game.

45. REFEREEING.—(a) The Players as Joint Referees.—In the absence of a referee appointed or agreed the players act as their own joint referees, but there is no obligation on the adversary to watch the game, and, if he turns his back on the game, the striker is during such period the sole referee. In doubles, all players share the rights and duties of a referee and a reference to the striker includes his partner.

(b) Certain Specified Duties of the Referee.—As a joint referee of the game the striker must announce any fault or irregularity he believes or suspects he may have committed. Likewise, the adversary should announce any irregularity he observes, notwithstanding it may be to his disadvantage. Further similar but not exhaustive examples are that an adversary should inform the striker that he must complete his turn by playing another stroke, or deeming it to have been played, if he sees him about to leave the court under the impression that his turn has ended; in handicap play, if the striker announces his intention to play a bisque turn before his previous turn has ended, the adversary should tell the striker that he must complete such turn in a similar manner; a player should immediately call attention to a misplaced clip; a player should on request give another player any information as to the state of the game.

(c) Questionable Stroke.—The striker about to play a stroke of which he suspects either the fairness or the effect may be doubtful must consult with his adversary before playing. This is known as a questionable stroke. The stroke should then be specially watched, preferably by an independent person. If no such person is available, the players must do the best they can. It is for the striker to take the initiative, but if he fails to do so the adversary should interrupt for the purpose of having the stroke specially watched.

(d) Testing the Position of a Ball.—The striker in his capacity as referee should not test whether a ball has run a hoop by placing his mallet against the hoop without first consulting his adversary. Any such test should be made in conjunction with the adversary, or, if either party so desire, by an independent person if available. The same principle applies when the question is whether a ball is off the court, or may be lifted under Law 13, or moved or wiped under Law 23; or whether any ball is in position to run a hoop. All such decisions made between strokes should be made jointly.

(e) The Striker as the Active Referee.—The adversary should not follow the striker around the court but should allow most decisions to be made by the striker without reference to himself. This is because the striker, generally speaking, is in the better position to give the correct decision. If, however, a close decision has to be made and the adversary is in as good or better position to do this, the striker should seek confirmation of his opinion before continuing to play.

(f) When the Players' Opinions Differ.—If a ball has to be replaced because of the carelessness of a player, the offending party should ordinarily defer to the opinion of the other. When the question is whether a roquet has been made on a ball or whether a ball has moved, the positive opinion is generally to be preferred to the negative opinion. If there are any reliable witnesses the players should agree to consult them in order to solve differences; but no player should consult a witness without the express permission of the other player.

46. INTERRUPTION OF THE STRIKER.—The adversary should not interrupt the striker except to discharge his duty as a referee.

47. PRESENCE ON COURT.—A player should not ordinarily remain on the court while his adversary is playing or move on to it until his turn has ended, and, in the case of handicap play, until his adversary has indicated that he does not intend to play a bisque turn. A player should indicate at the earliest opportunity whether or not he intends to take a bisque.

48. REPLACING BALLS.—(a) Especial care must be taken in the replacement of yard-line balls, but time should not be wasted unnecessarily.

(b) In replacing a ball on the yard-line a player should do so with his back to the court.

49. EXPEDITION IN PLAY.—(a) A player should play his strokes with reasonable despatch. In time-limited games the adversary should anticipate as far as possible with which ball he will play so that he may waste no time in approaching it at the beginning of his turn. In doubles, time should not be wasted in prolonged discussion between strokes.

(b) In time-limited games a player may not enquire from a referee whether one ball is wired from another except before the first stroke of a turn. Accordingly, a player may not circumvent this law by himself spending time in testing whether one ball is wired from another. In the interests of expedition, he must rely on an unaided ocular test.

50. UNPENALISED INFRINGEMENT OF LAWS.—Any infringement of the Laws for which there is no automatic penalty constitutes an infringement of these customs. Laws 23 and 40 (b) are examples of this.

51. ADVICE.—No player is entitled to advice from anyone other than his partner in doubles. It must be a matter of conscience how a player acts when in receipt of unsolicited information or advice. Warning a player that he is about to run a wrong hoop or play the wrong ball constitutes advice and in tournaments players must not so warn. Players may not make use of technical assistance from books or notes, or artificial aids such as coins, to assist them in arranging balls for a croquet stroke.

52. TOURNAMENTS.—In tournaments a referee should always be called before a questionable stroke, and all disputes should be referred to a referee. If the adversary fails to call a referee before what he should have recognised as a questionable stroke, he should not appeal. He should confine himself to requesting the striker to take the initiative in calling for a referee if another such stroke is about to be played. But it may be that the adversary is of the opinion that the striker is making faults such as "pushing" or "double tapping" in an unhampered stroke; if so, he should inform the striker with a view to a referee being called to watch a stroke or temporarily to take charge of the game. The striker has no justification for taking offence when any such request is made. Players can quite legitimately differ as to what is and what is not permissible under Law 32.

53. PENALTIES.—There is no automatic penalty for a breach of these Customs. In tournament games Referees are empowered to act under Regulation 4 (k).

In non-tournament games the players should agree to make any adjustment best calculated to restore the balance of the game, if, through a breach, such balance has been disturbed.

Players should refer to Regulations 4-7 to ascertain their rights of appeal to a referee in tournaments.

PART V.

LAWS RELATING TO MODIFIED GAMES AND COURTS.

54. MODIFIED GAMES.—The Standard Game of 26 points may be modified as follows:

(a) GAME OF 22 POINTS.—The game is started with all clips on the third hoop.

(b) GAME OF 18 POINTS.—Variations:

(i) The game is started with all clips on the fifth hoop.

(ii) The game is started with all clips on the first hoop and the peg is the next point in order after two back.

(iii) The standard setting is modified by removal of the two centre hoops. The game is started with all clips on the first hoop, one-back becomes the next point in order after the fourth hoop and the peg the next point in order after 4-back.

(iv) This variation is only for singles. The game is started with all clips on the first hoop, but as soon as the striker has scored that hoop with one ball the other of his clips is removed to 3-back.

(c) GAME OF 14 POINTS.—The game is started with all clips on the first hoop, and the peg is the next point in order after the sixth hoop.

55. ADVANCED PLAY IN MODIFIED GAMES.—In Advanced Play the provisions of Law 36 (b) (iii) shall not apply, but the options allowed the adversary as set out in Law 36 (a) shall apply when the striker has scored the following hoops or both of them in a turn:

(a) GAME OF 22 POINTS.—Hoops 1-back and 4-back.

(b) GAME OF 18 POINTS.—Variations:

(i) Hoops 1-back and 4-back.

(ii) Hoops 4 and 6.

(iii) Hoops 4 and 2-back.

(iv) Hoops 1-back and 4-back.

(c) GAME OF 14 POINTS.—Hoop 4.

SEMI-ADVANCED PLAY. In semi-advanced play the adversary shall be allowed the options in Law 55 only after the striker has scored the first of the hoops listed above for the various modified games.

PART 5. MODIFIED COURTS AND GAMES.

57. GAMES PLAYED UNDER HANDICAP.

(a) Bisques. The number of bisques to be given is the ordinary entitlement for a full game of 26 points adjusted in accordance with the Schedule on this page.

(b) PEELING PARTNER'S BALL in Handicap Doubles.—In modified handicap doubles each player is limited to peeling his partner's ball through hoops as follows:

Games of 22 or 18 points—3 hoops.

Game of 14 points—2 hoops.

58. MODIFIED COURTS.

(a) The Standard Length Unit.—The standard length unit of the standard court which measures 35 yards by 28 yards is 7 yards. The corner hoops are 7 yards from their adjacent boundaries; the centre hoops each 7 yards from the peg.

(b) Modified length units.—Should the area be too small to accommodate a standard court a modified court may be laid out in accordance with Part I of these laws maintaining the same proportions of five length units long by four length units wide but using a smaller modified length unit.

(c) Baulk lines.—The baulk lines shall measure one half of the width of the Court less the width of the corner square.

(d) Special Adjustments for very small courts.

(i) The Court. If the available area necessitates a length unit of less than 3½ yards, then the largest possible rectangular area (provided it is not more than twice as long as it is wide) shall be enclosed by boundaries, and the four corner hoops shall be placed 3½ yards from the adjacent boundaries with, in the centre of the area, a fifth hoop which shall face in the same direction and also serve as the Rover Hoop. The peg shall be set halfway between hoops two and three and in line with them.

(ii) The Yard Line.—The distance between the boundary and the yard line may be reduced to half a yard and the corner pegs will be adjusted accordingly.

(iii) Baulk Lines.—The baulk lines shall measure one quarter of the width of the court less the width of the corner square.

(iv) Standard Game for the above setting. The standard game consists of 22 points. The game is started with all clips on the first hoop; but, as there is no sixth or Penultimate hoop, the next point in order after the fifth hoop is 1 back and after 4-back the Rover hoop.

Laws of Golf Croquet

The laws relating to ordinary level play, singles and doubles, and handicap play apply subject to the following modifications:—

1. THE COURSE.—(a) There is no A baulk. Balls are played into the game from B baulk.

(b) When 13 points are contested the first 12 points are as in croquet. The 13th point is the third hoop. When 19 points are contested the hoops 1-back to the rover are contested twice before contesting the third hoop. The peg is not contested.

2. THE GAME.—(a) All balls are always for the same hoop in order. The point is scored for the side whose ball first runs the hoop.

(b) A short game is a contest for the best of 13 points, and a long game for the best of 19 points. The game ends as soon as one side has scored a majority of the points to be played. It is customary to keep the tally of the score by declaring a side to be one or more points up or down or all square as the case may be.

(c) Each turn consists of one stroke. The laws relating to roquet and croquet, continuation strokes and wiring do not apply.

(d) The balls are played in the sequence blue, red, black, yellow. Therefore, if yellow is played on the first stroke, blue is played on the second stroke and so on.

3. RUNNING A HOOP.—If the striker causes one of the balls of his side partly to run a hoop during a stroke, such ball must begin afresh to run such hoop before it can be scored by that ball in any subsequent stroke. But if an adversary cause a ball partly to run a hoop during a stroke such ball may run that hoop in a subsequent stroke.

4. JUMP STROKE.—A player may not deliberately make his ball rise from the ground. If he does so accidentally or in ignorance of this law, and in consequence runs a hoop for his striker's or partner's ball, the point shall not be scored. Likewise, if in consequence thereof any ball is displaced such ball may be replaced at the option of the adversary side.

5. ADVANCING A BALL PREMATURELY FOR THE NEXT POINT.—A player must play so as to contest the hoop in order rather than seek to gain an advantage for the next hoop in order. But a player bona fide contesting the hoop in order by, for example, attempting to cannon another ball, may legitimately play the stroke at a strength calculated to bring his ball to rest nearer the next hoop in order.

6. PLAYING OUT OF TURN OR WITH A WRONG BALL.—If the striker plays out of turn or with a wrong ball, that stroke and any subsequent strokes are null and void. All balls shall be replaced; the right ball shall be played by the correct player, and the other balls shall follow in due sequence. No points made during the period of error shall be scored. Any dispute should be settled by a referee.

7. METHOD OF HANDICAPPING.—Handicaps shall be allocated according to Association Croquet handicaps as follows:—

2 and under	0	7½ to 12	2
2½ to 7	1	Over 12	3

Provided that in the longer game of 19 points the side receiving odds shall receive an extra bisque: provided also that in the short game not more than 2 bisques, and in the longer game not more than 2½ bisques, shall be given in any case.

Notwithstanding the above provisions, special Golf Croquet handicaps may be given.

Explanatory Notes on Laws of Play

1. Where a court Boundary is not marked as set out in the standard setting or as under Part 5, Law 58, and any ball is found to have been played incorrectly, in consequence of this irregularity, a referee shall, if appealed to, direct that such ball be placed correctly at once.

Should the referee consider that the player not responsible for the error has suffered hardship because of it, he may at his discretion, direct such player to replay the portion of his turn affected by the opponent's error, subject to the provisions of Regulation (6d).

NOTE.—It must be noted that the word 'Boundary' applies to the outer edge of the court only. This modification only applies where the players have mistaken a boundary for a yard-line, or vice versa.

2. If a ball in play, when moving, be interfered with by a ball from another court, or from another game being played on the same court (double banking), while the success or failure of the stroke is still in doubt, the stroke may be replayed in accordance with the provisions of Law 34 (b) (i and ii); otherwise such ball shall be placed as nearly as possible in the position it would have occupied at the conclusion of the stroke, had no interference taken place (Law 34 (b) (iii).

NOTE.—The 'success or failure' of the stroke in this case must be regarded as 'in doubt' until the ball has arrived at or passed by its main objective; but should a ball be obviously coming to rest before reaching its main objective, the matter of 'doubt' cannot be raised.

3. Double Banking: Where more than one game is being played on the same lawn and the striker is of opinion, that a ball at rest, but in play, displaced by a player in the other game, has been replaced incorrectly, he should consult with his adversary, and if necessary with the player responsible for the alleged error, before correcting its position.

4. Double Banking: Should a striker make use of a ball from the other game, all balls affected by the error must be replaced in the positions they occupied immediately prior to the first stroke in error, and the turn continued correctly.

REGULATIONS AND CONDITIONS GOVERNING N.Z.C.C. TOURNAMENTS AND COMPETITIONS.

Selection Committee to comprise New Zealand Referee, New Zealand Handicapper and New Zealand President.

Officials in charge of, and competitors taking part in Tournaments and Competitions held directly or indirectly under the management of the N.Z.C.C. SHOULD NOTE THAT:

1. While no game once started may be moved to another court for other than climatic reasons, a best of three match may be moved between games.

2. In the case of a pegged-out game, the management shall take all reasonable care to ensure that the balls and clips are replaced correctly before the game is resumed. Should the players elect to replace the balls and clips themselves they become responsible for each such replacement, and for any error that may later be brought to light regarding it.

3. The competitors are jointly responsible for noting the starting time of every game and should convey this information to the Manager as soon as possible.

All referees are instructed that should their decision in law be disputed, they must immediately consult the District or Tournament Referee on the decision, before the game proceeds.

Should a game be lost on a referee's faulty decision in law and the mistake can be rectified, the portion of the game affected should be replayed.

General Handicap Regulations

1. The official handicaps for the season of all players shall be that allotted in the official handicap list included in the Annual, subject, however, to alterations in the following manner:

(a) Should any alteration in the handicap of a player be deemed advisable by the Handicapper of the District to which the player belongs, a recommendation in alphabetical order (should there be more than one) and in duplicate, signed by the Association Handicapper, should be sent to the New Zealand Handicapper who will confirm or otherwise such recommendations. The Association Handicapper will then immediately notify the Hon. Secretary of the Club to which the player belongs, who in turn will notify the player. All such recommendations must be accompanied by reasons for alterations, preferably giving finalists, semi-finalists or records of outstanding play. No alteration will be made simply to allow a player to take part in a particular grade.

(b) Should the N.Z. Handicapper deem an alteration to any handicap advisable—such handicap becomes official upon receipt of a written intimation to the Handicapper of the District to which the player belongs.

2. Alterations in handicaps will be published in the N.Z. Croquet Gazette during the season.

3. Early in March of each year, handicap forms shall be distributed to all affiliated Clubs—which forms shall be correctly filled in and returned to District Handicapper by April 30th. Upon receipt of such forms the District Official shall compile an alphabetical list of players in their District and forward same to the N.Z. Handicapper by 31st May. Each District list shall be signed by the District Official Handicapper, who shall allot a recommended N.Z. Handicap to each player on the list.

HANDICAPS AT OFFICIAL TOURNAMENTS—At all Official Tournaments the Handicapper appointed shall be responsible for the correct handicapping of all players taking part, and at the conclusion of such Tournaments, a report shall, at once, be furnished to the Official Handicapper of the Council giving the names of finalists, semi-finalists and any other outstanding player—together with any recommended reductions.

Should less than seven days elapse between the completion of one Official Tournament (or District Tournament) and another, players who intend taking part in both are required to notify the Manager of their intention. In such cases recommendations in Handicap should be made by telegram to the N.Z.C.C. Handicapper who shall notify the Manager of the second Tournament by collect telegram of any alteration made.

Regulations for Official Tournaments

INTRODUCTION.

The Croquet Council (that is to say the Croquet Council of the United Kingdom) and the Croquet Councils of Australia and of New Zealand have agreed that the Regulations for Official Tournaments held within their respective jurisdictions are a domestic matter for the Council concerned.

1. INTRODUCTORY REGULATION.

The references to the Croquet Association, the Croquet Council or to any committees or publications thereof, shall be interpreted as referring to the corresponding bodies or publications of the country where a tournament is taking place. The following Regulations shall apply only in as far as they have not been modified by the appropriate Council.

If, as a result of any modification, a consequential modification in the Laws relating to the Customs of the Game becomes necessary, the appropriate Council has jurisdiction to make it.

N.Z.C.C. OFFICIAL TOURNAMENTS.

1. Official Tournaments.

All Tournaments held directly or indirectly under the management of the Council, all District Championship Tournaments, and all Open Club Tournaments are regarded as Official Tournaments and as such are subject to the requirements of these Regulations.

For the purposes of this Regulation an "Open Tournament" is one in which Associates as defined in Regulation 13 of these Regulations may take part.

GENERAL.

2. LAWS AND REGULATIONS.

In all the advertised events at an Official Tournament the Laws of Association Croquet (throughout these Regulations referred to as Croquet) and these Regulations shall be in force.

For every Official Tournament there shall be appointed a Manager, a Referee, and a Handicapper, who shall together be responsible, each so far as his powers and duties are herein defined, for the administration, interpretation, and enforcement of the Laws and Regulations.

Variations in the Laws or Regulations.

The Committee of a Tournament may adopt any variations authorised by the Council or appended to the Laws of Croquet and Regulations for Official Tournaments. They may, further, adopt other variations with the permission of the Council first obtained, such permission to be applied for at least four weeks before the official date of the Tournament.

Law 36 shall be suspended in all events limited to associates with Official handicap of plus 8 bisques or over.

In every case, where an Association or Club affiliated to the New Zealand Croquet Council holds an Open Tournament or Competition, any variations of the Laws of Play or these Regulations should be published on the Tournament poster or, should no poster be printed, on the notice-board of the Club or Clubs whose lawns are used, before the first match is commenced.

REFEREES.

3.—POWERS AND DUTIES OF THE REFEREE OF A TOURNAMENT.

The powers and duties of the Referee of a tournament shall include:—

(a) At his discretion to nominate Assistant Referees from the official list of Referees, published in the C.A. Year Book and from time to time amended, to assist him in the duties specified below; if there are not any, or enough, official Refeeres available, he may nominate other suitable persons and report such nominations to the Council after the tournament; there shall be no appeal from the decisions of Assistant Referees, except to himself on questions of law; in his absence he should appoint an acting Referee of a Tournament in his stead.

(b) To check the accuracy of the setting and tournament equipment.

(c) At his discretion and after informing the players, or at the request of either side, to take charge of a game, or part of a game, or to appoint an assistant to do so.

(d) To be available, or to see that an assistant is available, to act as a Referee on call. A Referee is said to be called when he is asked to act as a Referee before an event takes place.

(e) To be available, or to see that an assistant is available, to act as a Referee on Appeal. A Referee is said to act on appeal when he is acting after an event has taken place.

4.—REFEREE IN CHARGE OF THE GAME.

The duties of a Referee in charge of the game include the following:—

(a) If he is a Referee appointed to take charge of part of a game after it is already in progress, first to ascertain from the players the state of the game at that moment. If the players disagree, he should first settle their dispute as if he were a Referee on appeal.

(b) To give his attention entirely to one game and to act as an ever-vigilant adversary. Unless a questionable stroke is about to be played the Referee should not go on to the court; but while he is off the court the striker is not relieved of his obligations and continues under a duty to announce faults and irregularities and to warn the Referee when he is about to play a questionable stroke. During the period he is off the court the adversary has a right to call the Referee's attention to any fault or irregularity which he thinks the Referee has overlooked. A player does this by requesting the Referee in charge to give a special ruling on any question. In that event further play shall be deemed to have been forestalled from that moment until the ruling has been given.

(c) To decide all questions of fact and law subject to the right of a player to appeal against his decision on any questions of law to the Referee of the Tournament. In deciding questions of fact, the Referee may at his discretion rely not only on the striker, who is frequently better placed to form an accurate opinion, but also on other players and spectators.

(d) To give any information to any player concerning the state of the game at any time, save that he shall not in a time limited game give the decision as to whether one ball is wired from another under Law 13 except to the striker before the first stroke of his turn.

(e) To state, at his discretion or if appealed to, what the law upon any matter is. Such information may be given before any stroke likely to be affected is actually made.

(f) At his discretion or upon request, to explain to any player who has made a fault the nature of his fault.

(g) To see that the record of the game is properly kept.

(h) To adjust hoops and peg as may be necessary.

(i) To act as time-keeper.

(j) To do anything necessary to discharge his duties as the referee in charge of the game.

(k) To penalise any player for breaches of the custom of the game, or for other blameworthy conduct, as he thinks best meets the justice of the case. In the last resort he has the power to disqualify. These powers and duties should be exercised sparingly, and any player aggrieved by the decision of an Assistant Referee may appeal to the Referee of the Tournament.

5.—REFEREE ON CALL.

The powers and duties of a Referee called are identical with those of a Referee in charge of the game while he is so acting, subject as follows:—

(a) He should first have himself informed as to the state of the game so far as it is relevant to the matter on which he is called. Thus if he be asked to decide whether a player is entitled to a lift under Law 13 he should enquire who played the ball to that position. On the contrary if he is merely asked whether one particular ball is wired from another he should confine himself to giving a decision on that fact. Only if the parties disagree as to the state of the game should he settle their dispute by acting as a Referee on appeal.

(b) A referee called shall go on to the court and take up the most favourable position for watching the effect and fairness of the stroke. The presence of a Referee watching the stroke precludes the striker from expressing any opinion upon the stroke.

6.—REFEREE ON APPEAL.

The players may appeal to a Referee on any question of fact and law and the Referee shall decide accordingly.

(a) A Referee on Appeal may decide by observation or through investigation.

(b) If by coincidence the Referee happens to have been a witness and is satisfied that he knows the answer he should inform the players that he is deciding the subject matter of the appeal by observation, and give his decision accordingly.

(c) If he is not so satisfied he should decide the dispute by investigation. He should hear what the parties have to say. At his discretion he should hear witnesses. He can add to the fund of his informaiton anything which he has himself observed, in which case he should state what he has observed. He should then give a decision to the best of his ability.

(d) If the Referee is in doubt he should in the last resort give a compromise decision, which may involve adjusting the clips arbitrarily and directing where the ball shall be placed. This includes the right to decide that all balls shall be played from baulk as at the beginning of the game and to decide who shall play first; it also includes the right to direct that the players shall begin the game again.

7.—REFEREE NOT IN CHARGE, NOT ON CALL, NOT ON APPEAL.

In the above circumstances the sole right of a Referee of a Tournament, or an Assistant with his consent, is to appoint himself to take charge of a game or part of it thereafter. Thus he is enabled to control further irregularities. A Referee should not appoint himself when he observes that a wrong ball has been played, until after the limit of claims or until a claim has been made; and in that event he should not volunteer his own observations in the absence of a dispute.

REGULATIONS FOR OFFICIAL TOURNAMENTS.

8.—TIME LIMITS.

(a) The Committee of a Tournament may in any advertised event fix a time limit of not less than 3 hours, but in any series of events played in classes according to handicap or sex, the time limit must be the same for all games in each class. When time is called, the competitor in play shall complete his turn and the opposing side shall play one subsequent turn. The side which has then scored the greater number of points shall win. If the points are equal at this stage, the side which scores the next point shall win.

For the purpose of this regulation only, one turn ends and the next begins as soon as the striker has played the last stroke which he is entitled to play in that turn.

(b) Where no time limit has been fixed for an event in advance, the Manager shall have power to impose a time limit of one hour on any game after it has been played for 2 hours, if in his opinion the length of that game is impeding the progress of the tournament. He shall also have power to impose before the start of a particular round a time limit of not less than 3 hours on the games in that round and all subsequent rounds. Later he may remove this time limit or alter it (subject to a minimum of 3 hours) provided that he imposes the same limit on all games in the same round.

(c) When a time limit is imposed under (b) above, a further half hour shall be added if, when play has ended under the time limit imposed, neither side has more than 4 points to make.

NOTE: A bisque is an extra turn and after time has been called may not be taken by either side.

9. Withdrawing from an Event.

Competitors defaulting the first game in an event which allows them as losers to enter the "Plate" event, must retire from the whole event.

If a competitor is compelled, through urgent necessity, to withdraw from an event before having played any matches, the Committee of Management may, at its discretion, return the entry fee.

COMPETITORS.

10. Eligibility to Compete.

(a) Associates (financial members) of any Organisations affiliated to the Croquet Association (England), and Associates of the Croquet Association (England) itself are eligible to compete in all Tournaments and Competitions governed by these Regulations.

(b) A person who receives payment in money, whether by way of a fee or as an allowance for expenses, for his services as a player shall not be eligible to compete in Official Tournaments.

(c) A person who receives payment in money, whether by way of a fee or as an allowance for expenses, for his services in connection with the organisation or conduct of a Tournament shall not be eligible to compete in any event at that Tournament without special permission from the Committee of Management. Provided that nothing in this Regulation shall be held to prohibit the raising of a special fund to assist in defraying the expenses of a team, authorized by the Council, for the purpose of playing international matches.

11.—RESPONSIBILITY FOR CORRECT HANDICAP.

(a) Notwithstanding anything in these Regulations which may be deemed to be to the contrary, the responsibility for being marked to play at his correct handicap rests finally with the competitor himself. If, through neglect of this responsibility, he plays at a handicap higher than that to which he is entitled, he shall be disqualified from the event in which he is, or has been, playing, and the last competitor whom he defeated shall take his place. He should, therefore, before playing satisfy himself, by reference to the Tournament Handicapper if necessary, as to the correctness of the handicap at which he is marked to play.

(b) It is the duty of every competitor to record on his entry form and to report to the Tournament Handicapper on arrival at the tournament any reduction in his club handicap which may have been made since he last competed in an Official Tournament.

12.—LIABILITY TO BE SCRATCHED OR DISQUALIFIED.

(a) Under Regulations 9, 10 and 11 above.

(b) At the discretion of the manager,

(i) to be scratched, if they shall be absent or otherwise unable to play when called upon by the Manager;

(ii) to be disqualified, if they shall change a set or part of a set of balls during a match or at any other time during the tournoment, without having first obtained the permission of the Manager;

(iii) to be disqualified, if they shall practise on the court before, during, or after the hours of play, without having first obtained the permission of the Manager;

(iv) to be disqualified if, on being requested by the Manager to wear flat soled boots or shoes they do not comply with such request;

(v) to be disqualified for misconduct;

(vi) to be disqualified without any explanation after receipt by the Manager of a report from the Committee of the Tournament.

(c) At the discretion of the Referee, to be disqualified under Regulation 4 (k).

In all cases of disqualification a competitor shall forfeit any entrance fees which he has paid, and shall return any prize that may have been awarded to him.

13.—ADVERTISED PROGRAMMES.

Advertised programmes shall contain the following information:—

(a) The date, period and place of the Tournament.
(b) The number and nature of the events, who may compete, and the amount of the entrance fees.
(c) The number and situation of the courts, the setting to be used, the nature of the balls, and the width of the hoops in the various events.
(d) The number of the prizes.
(e) The date of the closing of the entries.
(f) The time of commencement of play.
(g) The stipulation that every competitor shall wear such flat, rubber-soled boots or shoes as cannot damage the court. (Narrow wedgies do not come into this category).
(h) The names of the officials of the Tournament Manager and Assistant Managers, Handicapper, and Referee (who must be qualified by examination if such is available), and the address to which entries must be sent.

No championship, other than one limited to members of a registered Croquet Club, shall be advertised for or held as an Official Tournament, without sanction of the Council.

The sanction of the Manager shall be obtained before any alterations are made in the advertised programme.

MANAGERS.

14.—POWERS AND DUTIES OF MANAGERS.

The powers and duties of the Manager of a Tournament shall be:—

(a) to give advice to the Committee of the Tournament, which will ensure that the number of entries accepted is limited to the capacity of the courts;

(b) to superintend the draw, or to nominate some person to superintend on his behalf;

(c) to decide, subject to any instructions issued by the Committee of Management, in what order events are to be played.

(d) To allot courts to the competitors, and to declare any courts to be unfit for play;

(e) to decide the time of play; and, with due regard to the fact that full advantage must be taken of the prevailing daylight, to decide a time for ceasing play. If possible, competitors should be informed of this before commencing a match.

(f) to decide as to the shortening or time limiting of games if in his opinion these are in the interests of the Tournament;

(g) to decide as to any leave of absence;

(h) at his discretion to scratch or disqualify competitors in accordance with Regulation 12, and to report any disqualification to the Council;

(i) at his discretion to sanction, at the request of the Committee of the Tournament, alterations in the advertised programme of the Tournament which do not contravene the Laws of Croquet or these Regulations, and to report the same immediately to the council;

(k) at any time to adjourn an unfinished game. If this involves pegging down at a point at which any of the provisions of Laws 36 and 37 will come into operation in the subsequent hour, it shall be the duty of the Manager, on the resumption of play, to remind the striker of his rights under the Law.

15—THE DRAW.

For all N.Z. Croquet Council events there shall be a straight draw.

Seeding is not permitted, but in local events it may be adopted, but only to avoid as far as possible an early meeting between—

(a) Competitors from the same Club.

(b) Close Relatives.

(c) Players who have already been drawn to meet in the first round of another event.

For the purpose of determining how the competitors in any event shall meet, the Manager shall adopt one of the following methods:—

(1) The Bagnall Wild System.

(a) After counting the number of entries received, the number of byes and matches shall be ascertained by means of the following rule:—

Subtract the number of entries from the next higher power of 2 (i.e., 4, 8, 16, 32, 64, 128, 256). The result gives the total number of byes. Then subtract the number of byes from the number of entries and the result is the number of competitors in the first round.

Half the byes go at the top of the competition card and half at the bottom, except that if there be an odd bye it goes to the bottom set, and if the number of byes be even, but not divisible by 4 (i.e., 2, 6, 10, 14, 18, 22, 26, etc.) two more byes may be placed with the bottom set than with the top.

Example 1. Entries 67.

Next higher power of 2 is 128; thus 128—67=61 byes. 67—61=6, the number of competitors in the first round. 30 byes go at the top and 31 at the bottom.

Example 2. Entries 22.

Next higher power of 2 is 32; thus 32—22=10 byes. 22—10=12, the number of competitors in the first round. 5 byes go at the top and 5 at the bottom or 4 at the top and 6 at the bottom.

"BAGNALL-WILD" SYSTEM

(i) The competitors shall be drawn on the Bagnall-Wild method and their names written down on a competition card of the correct size, called the "Draw." These names shall then be numbered from 1 upwards, starting from the top of the card (e.g., with 21 entries, as the Bagnall-Wild method produces 5 byes at the top, 5 first-round matches and 6 byes at the bottom, the top byes would be given numbers 1 to 5, the competitors in the first-round matches numbers 6 to 15, and the bottom byes numbers 16 to 21).

(ii) One of the following series of numbers, according to the number of entries, shall be written down in full in the sequence given below on a second competition card, called the "Process," which must be the same size as the "Draw" card, starting from the top of the card—

5 to 8 entries—

3: 7: 1: 5: 4: 6: 2: 8.

9 to 16 entries—

7:13:3:11:5:15:1:9:8:12:4:16:6:14:2:10.

17 to 32 entries—

15:25: 7:23:11:29: 3:19:13:27: 5:21: 9:31: 1:17:
16:24: 8:32:12:28: 4:20:14:26: 6:22:10:30: 2:18.

33 to 64 entries—

31:49:15:47:23:57: 7:39:27:53:11:43:19:61: 3.35:
29:51:13:45:21:59: 5:37:25:55: 9:41:17:63: 1:33:
32:48:16:64:24:56: 8:40:28:52:12:44:20:60: 4:36:
30:50:14:46:22:58: 6:38:26:54:10:42:18:62: 2:34:

(iii) The names of the competitors on the "Draw" card shall be written down against their corresponding numbers on the "Process" card, a blank being left against numbers which have no corresponding names (e.g., with 21 entries, a blank would be left against numbers 22 to 32). Competitors bracketed with a blank will thus receive byes into the second round, and it will be noted that, unlike the Bagnall-Wild method, this system may produce byes and matches interspersed throughout the card. The system also ensures that competitors who met in the first and second rounds of the "Draw" connot meet in the "Process" before the semi-final round.

(iv) The matches on the two cards shall then be played in the ordinary way, the winner of the "draw" playing an extra match against the winner of the "Process" to decide who shall be the winner of the first prize. If the same competitor wins both the "Draw" and the "Process," he shall win the first prize without further play, and the two unsuccessful finalists shall play an extra match to decide who shall be the winner of the second prize. Further duplications which may arise shall be dealt with in a similar manner.

The X.Y.Z and X.Y. Systems.

Event X.—The competitors shall be drawn on the Bagnall-Wild method.

Event Y.—All competitors who lose their first match in X enter automatically into Y. Their names shall be entered on the Y competition card in the same order as they were drawn in the X event.

Care must be taken to fix the correct number of byes and matches.

N.B.—If there is an uneven number of byes in X the number of competitors in Y may vary.

Event Z.—All competitors who lose their second match in X or their first match in Y enter automatically into Z. Event Z shall be redrawn on the Bagnall-Wild method.

N.B.—(1) A competitor drawing a bye shall not be deemed to have won a match. A competitor who "walks over" shall be deemed to have won a match, and conversely a competitor who scratches, or is scratched, or who retires, shall be deemed to have lost a match.
(2) If only X and Y are played a competitor who "walks over" shall not be deemed to have played a match. A competitor who has scratched from the Tournament shall not be entered on the Y card.

(b) In singles, the name or corresponding number of each competitor, or, in doubles, the names or corresponding number of each pair of competitors, shall be drawn at random one by one, and the names written down, in the order drawn, on the competition card starting from the top of the card.

(i) When a bona-fide entry has been accidentally omitted, the Manager shall insert such name after the draw has been completed. In such case the name shall be written down on the competition card in the position which an additional name would have occupied if the number of entries had been one greater, or if impossible the nearest place thereto.

(ii) When a name or number has been accidentally included the Manager shall strike out such name or number after the draw has been completed.

(c) Should any name or number be not so drawn and written down, it shall be the duty of the Manager to declare the draw void and to proceed with a fresh draw.

THE SECTION PLAY SYSTEM.

(a) The competitors shall be divided into the required number of Sections of equal playing strength.

(b) During Section Play, each competitor shall be given opportunity of playing every other competitor in his Section, the Section-winner being he who scores the largest number of wins.
Should two or more competitors tie for first place, the Section-winner shall be found by means of a play-off arranged on the Bagnall-Wild principle.

(c) Section-winner will then play in a Post-section event, Bagnall-Wild draw, to determine the event winner.

(d) Unless specially stated otherwise, each match will consist of a single game.

(e) If an event consists of a single section only, the final match in the play-off, should a play-off be necessary, will be regarded as the event final.

(f) Should any competitor default, withdraw, be scratched, or disqualified during section play, his record of wins and losses shall be deleted. Should the winner of a section, after having completed the section play, withdraw, the runner-up in the section shall be included in the play-off.

16.—EVENTS PLAYED IN CLASSES.

When there are events played in classes according to handicap, the Manager, assisted by the Tournament Handicapper, shall draw competitors in such classes as their handicaps in the Official Handicap Book entitle them to be entered. A competitor who has been correctly drawn in a class and subsequently, before he has begun to play therein, has become ineligible for the same, shall be taken out of that class and treated as an entry accidentally included therein, and accidentally omitted from the class to which he properly belongs.

7. Play will be under Championship conditions in each grade—NOT HANDICAPS.

8. In Grades A and B, each match may consist of the best of three or of a single game. Each Association shall inform Clubs which has been decided upon early in the season, before the Competitions have commenced, and this instruction must be followed in both Club Competitions, and the play-off Club Representatives. In grade C, each match shall consist of a single game, which may be a shortened game.

Country Inter-Club Competitions for N.Z.C.C. Cups

SPECIAL CONDITIONS.

1. The Cups shall be provided by the N.Z. Croquet Council and shall be known as "The New Zealand Croquet Council Challenge Cups."

2. Any Association having a group of Clubs affiliated to it that are situated at a distance from the District Headquarters, may apply to the New Zealand Croquet Council for one of the above-named Cups.

All applications must be accompanied by the following particulars:

(a) Number of clubs in the proposed group and the membership of each.

(b) The distance from headquarters and from each other.

(c) Local resident members only eligible to compete.

(d) Whether there are any unaffiliated clubs in the vicinity that might be induced to affiliate in order to take part in the Competition. The name of the Hon. Secretary, or of any prominent member of such clubs.

3. Applications will be considered by the Tournament Committee of the N.Z.C.C., and that Committee shall have the power to allot up to five of such Cups in one year. Should more than five applications be received the Tournament Committee shall allot the Cups to the groups deemed to be most in need of assistance. The Tournament Committee shall have power to modify these conditions to meet special circumstances that may arise.

4. The Competition shall be arranged on the Yankee principle and a team from each club in each group shall play a match against a team from each other club in that group. The matches shall be decided on games save where an equal number of games are won by each side, in which case the side scoring the larger total number of points shall be the winner.

5. Before the commencement of each match the respective Captains shall decide upon the time at which the play shall cease, any games unfinished at that time shall be won or lost on points.

6. Four players shall make up a team and each Association shall decide the number of singles and doubles to be played. No one player may play more than one single and one double in any match. Single games throughout. A team may comprise six players, if by this increase in number, concession in fares in train travel may thereby be made available.

7. All matches shall be played on handicap and the latest New Zealand handicap shall be the handicap taken in each case. Players shall be arranged in order of merit according to their handicap and in doubles Nos. 1 and 2, 3 and 4, shall play as partners.

8. The dates for play shall be arranged by the Association to which the clubs in each group are affiliated and the clubs duly notified. The N.Z.C.C. shall also receive a copy of each list of dates.

Should any date prove inconvenient, it may be altered by mutual arrangement between the clubs concerned; in such case the Association must be informed of the alteration by both clubs.

9. The Tournament Committee of the N.Z.C.C. will give careful consideration to any suggested amendment by interested Associations, of regulations governing play where local conditions are such that some readjustment would seem to be desirable in that particular area.

I hereby certify that I have examined the books, accounts and vouchers of the New Zealand Croquet Council since they were last audited (for the period up to the 14th February, 1961) and in my opinion the above Balance Sheet sets out a true and fair view of the state of the Council's affairs as at 31st July, 1961, according to the books and the explanation given to me. I have accepted the audited statement of the "Gazette' account, the balance of which is incorporated above. No physical check was made of trophies or equipment.
